Chardonnay
Russian River Valley
Sophia's Vineyard
2018

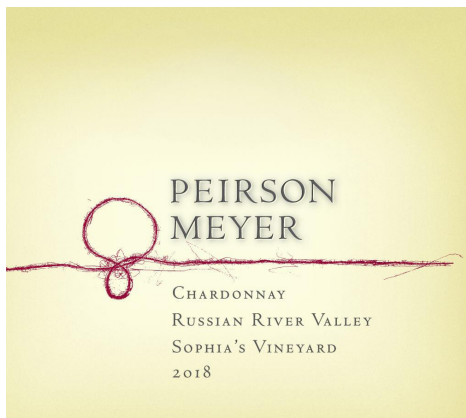

This elegant, multi-layered Chardonnay from Sophia's Vineyard attains a perfect balance between its acidity and creamy texture. Intertwined in the palate are sweet spice, honey, tangerine oil, and a classic river stone minerality. The mouthfeel has an amazing polish, presence, and viscosity that finishes perfectly focused, leaving a persistent impression on the palate.

VINOUS Review by Antonio Galloni

The 2018 Chardonnay Sophia's Vineyard is a bit brighter than most of the Chardonnays in this range and also has more phenolic edge, which helps shape the wine. Lemon confit, chamomile, dried flowers and apricot all open in the glass. Aeration helps soften some of the contours and acids that are a bit strong at the outset.

Sophia's Vineyard

Warren Dutton planted this 7 acre vineyard in the 1970s using the Old Wente Clone without rootstock. Located near Graton, the well drained Goldridge soil has kept these vines healthy and productive. On a gentle north facing slope that protects the fruit from the hot afternoon sun, the vines are trained on a vertical trellis (VSP).
